You're Never Too Old To Get Back Lost Muscle!

Our muscles fatigue and grow weaker as we age. Simple household tasks like bringing in groceries or lifting a child become more difficult.

Starting in our 30's, we lose up to 8% of our muscle mass each decade. But, we can prevent and reverse it.

The Key is Strength Training!

The issue is that most of us are professional sitters. Muscles like hip flexors and chest muscles become short and tight. It shuts down signals to other important muscles, like glutes and upper back, so they too become weak.

How to Start to Rebuild:

- Start by targeting glutes and back muscles. These are major muscles that are critical for posture, balance, running, jumping, and lifting.
- Start at home by making time to stretch, do sit ups, planking, do push-ups, burpees, and even walking lunges across your house or down the driveway or sidewalk.

- Perform a high number of repetitions with lighter weight. Start with nothing and then you can use a gallon jug you fill half way (4 lbs), then all the way (8 lbs).
- Aim to strength train 2-3 days a week with aerobic activity at least 5 times a week and stretch at least 2 days a week.

"Exercise is better than any drug" says Dixie Stanforth (associate professor at University of Texas at Austin's Department of Kinesiology and Health Education) in reversing the effects of osteoporosis and building strength.

Top Tips for Successful Working from Home

Working from home has become common place with the recent pandemic. But, there are so many distractions. Here are some tips to be more productive:

1. Remove Distractions - Take social media off your work computer. Leave your personal cell phone in another room.
2. Don't Be Afraid to Speak Up If Something Isn't Working- If you see something out of place, don't be afraid to see if your coworkers are seeing the same thing and bring it to the attention of leadership.
3. Remember What's Worked in the Past - Take your best habits when you worked in the office and apply them at home. Think about ways you communicate best and how you set priorities.
4. Be Consistent - Set consistent work hours and communicate with updates at regular times each day with your team. Consider tools like Teams and Slack for office communication.
5. Over-communicate - when people are not physically together, miscommunication can occur more frequently. Make sure to clarify goals and projects. Ask "what does it look like? (when is it due? who else do you need to involve? what other resources do you need? etc)
6. Recognize Your Team and Your Peers - when we work remotely, there is less opportunity to recognize other's achievements. Make sure you are taking time to recognize at least one person's achievements weekly.
7. Make Time to Exercise and De-Stress - Working from home brings additional stress of pets, kids, as well as dealing with all the issues at hand during the pandemic. Make time to relieve your stress and "fill your tank" so you can perform at your best and be emotionally healthy.
